

EXPERTISE ... AGILITY ... INNOVATION

As a leading global provider of weather risk management products, Endurance's Global Weather team is dedicated to customizing weather protection solutions to our clients' unique weather-driven challenges.

With a depth of experience borne out of innovating weather risk management products since the market's inception about 20 years ago, we not only offer our clients WeatherLock® and CommodityFlex® products but also provide key analysis and transaction structuring services. Our ability to execute within a short timeframe enables our clients to move quickly on opportunities that require speed and precision in a dynamic marketplace.

ENDURANCE GLOBAL WEATHER

Endurance's Global Weather team writes tailored weather-driven risk management derivatives and (re)insurance products indexed to weather and commodity prices. Weather indices, as measured and reported by global meteorological agencies, are based on weather variables such as temperature, precipitation, snowfall, windspeed and solar irradiance. Commodity price indices, published by exchanges and other independent organizations, include natural gas and power across key energy markets and agricultural prices such as corn, wheat and cotton.

Our contracts are written on a global basis and in a variety of major currencies ranging in duration from several days to several years.

TAILORED PRODUCTS

Endurance Global Weather offers significant transactional capacity and an array of financial products including:

- WeatherLock®: A suite of products with payments structured to address volatility primarily in weather-driven volumes. These products can be customized to our client's specific needs and include:
 - TempLock®
 - RainLock®
 - WindLock®
 - SolarLock®
 - RiverLock®
 - ENSOLock®
 - GenLock®/DemandLock®
 - ConstructionLock®
 - HydroLock®
 - SnowLock®

- CommodityFlex®: A suite of products where payments are driven by the interaction of both weather and commodity price indices, providing a greater degree of payment specificity for weather-driven commodity businesses like energy and agriculture. These include:
 - PowerFlex®
 - GasFlex®
 - OilFlexSM

TARGET MARKETS

Our team works with corporations and municipalities seeking to mitigate their financial exposure to variations in weather conditions and weather-driven commodity prices. We also provide products specifically designed for project finance that protect against weather-related risks to return targets and debt service coverage.

We have significant experience creating value-added solutions for our clients, worldwide, in the following industries:

- Energy (Gas, Power and Oil)
- Construction
- Transportation
- Renewable Energy (Wind, Solar and Hydro)
- Retail
- Agriculture
